

Mallet Creek

Miss Catherine Neufeld, who is attending business college in Elyria, was home with her parents from Thursday till Monday morning, when she returned.

L. E. Carnahan's brother, who worked for the B. & O. at Lester for awhile, has now returned to his former home in Cleveland.

Mrs. Carrie Van Ornum of Norwalk road isn't much of a dancer, all because she don't pick her feet up quick enough. The last time she tried one of the new dances she caught her toe in the carpet and fell headlong to the floor making quite a cut over one eye. But despite the hurt, she picked herself up and with blood in her eye (and on her face), she came over election day and boosted for the new school and won. We think she will be more careful after this, for she must realize by this time that when 180 pounds falls, it falls hard. Moral: Learn to step high, Carrie.

Perry Stahley, over by Battles' Corners, while out motoring last Saturday with his new car, thought he would take a spin over on the Norwalk road on the nice cement pavement, and being all alone thought he would try one of those stunts that is so easily accomplished by other motorists, namely, run into the ditch and come out alive. He put the stant on right in front of C. H. Garrett's a half mile east of the town line. Well, the first trial was a success for he went into the ditch alright smashed the top of his machine and one wheel, and really came out of it alive.

Homer Seeley of Medina spent Tuesday at his brother's, Delwin Seeley's, hunting. Well, we think the bunnies would have to scamper with Homer and his big policeman brother after them.

Geo. Barton son Charles made a flying business trip to Cleveland on Saturday. But Charley had drive, for the fences are always the way when George drives.

Mrs. Emma Jane Lampson, a former old resident of Mallet Creek, is lying at the point of death at her daughter's home, Mrs. Mary Curtis, near Windfall, at this writing, Nov. 15.

M. E. Branch is moving to Medina this week. The country has no more attraction for him, since his honeymoon whirl around the globe. Suppose he will get into business, or get a position at the Root factory, for the law will require him to support his family in some manner after this.

G. A. Hinman's mother, Mrs. Asa Hinman of Cleveland, visited him last week and Mr. Hinman and family took her home Sunday, and called on their old friend, Robert Cassidy.

Mrs. Bishop is slowly improving so far as her hand is concerned, but her general health is not good, as she keeps weak and has poor appetite.

John Parker and wife, who went to Mt. Dora, Fla., by auto, arrived in good shape and proceeded at once to buy land on which to build a home. They will first live in the garage while they build a house. Don't know what the next jump will be but we understand they intend to return to Ohio for next summer; then will make their permanent home in the sunny south.

Mrs. Dora Snyder spent the week-end with Mrs. Susan Burrer.

Mrs. Burrer had for guests last Saturday: Frank Burrer, her son and family of Litchfield; her brother, Wm. Musser of Litchfield and Frank Walters and family from the same place. Ray Fieldhouse of Lodi is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Joe VanBoven.

The gas well on Ray Smith's farm that was drilled in about two weeks ago has proved a hummer. It is estimated over a two million and a half foot well. The Wacker well is expected to show up the last of this week. With several other wells going down, who said York wasn't a good town.

Rev. Sudduth announces regular services Sunday and evening, with cottage prayer meeting Thursday evening.

L. O. Slusser and Walter Molton and son of Akron were guests of Mr. Chas. Pierce and family Tuesday, and of course hunted bunnies all day. Don't know whether they got them or not, but you know there is lots of fun trying. By the way, rabbits around York today have been so scared, they had to resort to all sorts of schemes to save their lives. One poor bunny scampered up an apple tree, and the hunter thinking him a squirrel passed him by. Of course there are some city hunters that don't know just how long a rabbit's tail should be anyway.

Mrs. Houghton of Oberlin spent the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. L. R. Kindall and family, who took her home Saturday and remained over Sunday.

Orland Baughman and wife of Lakewood were the guests of N. W. Geising and family Tuesday, and of course the new trustee had to show Mr. Baughman how to bag rabbits.

Mr. Rose, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bowersox of Akron helped Homer Stone chase rabbits last Tuesday. Don't know whether they caught up with any or not.

Ralph Leiblin of Cleveland was a guest of his brother E. T. Leiblin and family, Tuesday last and remained to hunt a couple of days.

Mr. Joe Nagle, H. H. Smith and Albert Aubell from Lorain, were guests of Frank Coleman Wednesday.

The county Y. M. C. A. band concert given in the town hall Thursday evening of last week was one of the finest musical entertainments in this place for some time. Mothers of York boy members, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Van Ornum, Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Pritchard, gave the band a surprise reception and light lunch at the close of the concert, winding up an evening of great enjoyment.

Helen Spieth was a guest of Miss Ruth Coleman Saturday.

Mrs. Joseph Geller will sell her household goods, Saturday afternoon, and will leave at once for her future home in New York city. She will be accompanied by three of her children. Two other children, Sadie and Harry are employed in New York.

The remains of Mrs. Dick Ross, former Wedsworth resident and a sister of Mrs. T. D. Wolbach in this place, was interred in Woodlawn cemetery last Thursday beside the body of her husband. Mrs. Ross' death occurred suddenly Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Latham, at Akron. Mrs. Ross had been in her usual state of health and was a dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Auble Tuesday afternoon. She returned to her daughter's home in good spirits and her death which occurred later in the evening was probably due to a sudden attack of heart trouble. Mrs. Ross was a resident of Wadsworth for many years, her husband having been a well-known druggist. The deceased was 75 years of age and is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Latham, a son, Percy Ross of Akron and one grandchild; also by three sisters, Mrs. Wolbach of this place and Mrs. Samuel Stirling and Miss Caroline Rothacker of Carrollton, Ohio.

The death of Mrs. Harry Allen occurred at 7 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 9. Mrs. Allen was not quite 31 years of age and leaves two little daughters besides her husband. She underwent a serious operation about a year ago from which she never fully recovered.

Though in poor health for a long time, she was confined to her bed less than two weeks previous to her death. Mrs. Allen was Miss Hazel Keller previous to her marriage. Funeral services were held from the residence at 10 a. m., Saturday.
